

There is no one Polish wedding traditions (for giving gifts). Everything depends on bride and groom, who they are and what they like. But from my and Wojtek experience most weddings (from gift side;) in Poland looks like on below map:

After wedding ceremony outside the church in Poland very rarely couples sign up at stores for the gifts

Gifts according the attachment to invitation

- + You know bride and groom well
- + You are not very close with bride and groom

If there is no other request on invitation and

- +  flowers
- +  greeting card
- +  other gifts

Where to buy

optionally other gifts (rather small size)

instead flowers or additionally gifts from the list funny poem :)

only money

Sometimes invitation contains attachment where bride and groom ask for

- + young couples
- + mature couples

Should be taken into consideration also age and stage of life of bride na groom

If there is no attachment to invitation no one expect gifts at all :) enough are flowers and greeting card not required, only if somebody wants to give sth like that Bigger gifts :)

- from the list if it was
- bedclothes
- tableware
- others
